CCE STEM Camp Summer 2017

Campers will learn about force, motion, and friction, and how they relate to the physical sciences. Campers will be challenged by LEGO engineering kits that push them to make the very most of simple machines such as belts, axels, and worm gears. Math & Geometry come to life as the campers build and utilize instructional models made with K'NEX, which will enhance the campers' understanding of important concepts and algorithms. Finally, students will be able to create an interactive digital model of their learning for the week, using the Unity game engine.
