Young Filmmakers — Filmmakers is a highly creative camp where children work together to develop a storyline and script, then shoot and act in their own short movie or commercial. Through this camp children not only learn about film production, but the significance of time management, responsibility and leadership while witnessing first-hand the importance of being able to communicate and speak confidently in front of a group.

Note: Although children are introduced to the equipment and editing in this camp, this is not the emphasis of this camp.
