Mrs. Teddy's Tidbits

Good morning Falcon Families!

I hope everyone had a wonderful day off. This holiday came at a time many might have needed an extra day to get some rest. We have had many students and some teachers out sick with the flu, strep, and stomach bugs. If your child is experiencing fever, vomiting or other signs of illness, please keep them home or give our nurse a call if you have any questions. Due to several teachers out last week, we canceled our practice drills and will have them this week.

Don't forget CLASS Pictures are tomorrow! You need to send in your order form or go online to order today or tomorrow.

I am looking forward to another great week at Indian Creek!!

Sincerely,

Amy Teddy

A few reading tips to start off the week! Even if your child is motivated to read, supporting your Falcon with a variety of ways and options will keep the momentum going. Here are a few tips to open up the wonderful world of reading for your child.

1. Children feel confident when they read books that are "just right." But how do you find a "just right" book? Have your child read the back and front cover, and the first page of the book. If there are more than five words that he cannot pronounce or understand in context, the book may be too challenging. Help your Falcon reader feel successful!
2. Do you think effective reading only takes place at libraries and bookstores? Think again! There are reading opportunities everywhere! Read food labels or even greeting cards the next time you and your child are at the store!
3. Take time to read comic strips together. Share favorites from your own childhood and have your child put his favorites on the fridge. Read them aloud, and often — repetition is a great way to build reading skills. Look forward to the “Sunday funnies” each week!
